Read this short story.

The Joke

Sir William Thompson was very rich, but he always pretended that he could hear everything. One evening he invited several friends to dinner. While they were sitting at the table, one of the friends told a funny story. Everyone laughed. William laughed very loudly too. Then, he said, " That was a very funny joke, but I know a funnier one. Would you like to hear it?" They all said they would, so William began his story. When it ended, everyone laughed loudly than before. William smiled happily. But he didn't know the reason for their laughter. He had told the same story.

You all the verbs in that story are printed in bold. Complete the following table. Write in column 1 each of the verbs in bolds. Write the subject of each verb in column 2. Write the object (if there is one) in column 3. And in column 4 put ✓ if the verb is transitive, or ✗ if it is intransitive. We have filled in the columns for the first verb for you.

Subject	Verb	Object	Kind of Verb
He	invited	friends	T