Adjectives Add Interest

Name:_____

Adjectives make stories more exciting. They add the descriptions that help paint pictures in our minds. Stories without adjectives can be simple and boring. Read the story below. Then rewrite it using at least one adjective for each noun. Use sensory and descriptive language that helps the story come alive.

It was a day. The alarm rang. I jumped out of bed and got dressed. I put on a pair of pants and a shirt. I added some socks and shoes, and then I was almost ready to leave. I drank some juice in a cup and ate a piece of toast. I hurried out the door to go to school. I ran to my class in a building on the campus. There were students in my class. I sat next to one. I wrote in my notebook and on the board. I looked at my books, pens, and pencils. Later, I got paper and paint from the cupboard to make a project. The teacher gave us homework. After school, I walked home through the neighborhood. The boys yelled to me. I went into my house to do my homework. I finished in two hours. I played with the kids until dinner.
