Computer Hardware and Software Vocabulary

Match the elements in A with definitions in B

A		B
1. BIOS		a. add some kind of functionality to a PC
2. bootstrapping		b. MDI Dooling: an interface is computer where it fact hyperlink
3. bus		c. anything connected to the computer that can modify the user (keyboard, printer, monitor)
4. Central Processing Unit (CPU)		d. anything that lets you interact with the PC
5. command line		e. anything that stores information for the computer
6. Device		f. anything that the PC uses to display an interface
7. expansion cards		g. Automatic boot-house of the chart, no flow of it also to reach it
8. hard disk drive		h. connects everything together and lets the other parts communicate
9. input device		i. fast, temporary storage that the PC uses for what it is doing at that moment
10. motherboard		j. instructions for the CPU to use other devices
11. Operating System (OS)		k. all ways of giving instructions to the computer where you have to type commands
12. optical disk drive		l. physical connections between and protocols that allow devices to communicate
13. output device		m. provides power to the internal components of the computer
14. peripheral		n. software built into the motherboard that runs when a PC is booting
15. power supply unit (PSU)		o. stores information for a computer using a number of magnetic plates
16. program		p. the instructions for the computer with the OPS/what operating with the other hardware which is set
17. RAM		q. the most basic level of software handles the low-level hardware instructions
18. software		r. the part that performs the instructions and calculations given by program
19. storage		s. the software we are most familiar with software that is user-interface with