Stem-changing -ir verbs

- Verbs ending in -ir that have an stem change in the present tense also have a stem change in the preterite tense but only in the third person forms.

  e → i servir: sirvió; sirvieron o → u dormir: durmió; durmieron

- Some verbs that fit this pattern are sentirse(se), divertirse(se) (to fall asleep), pedir, seguir, divertirse (to have fun), morir(se) (to die) and reír(se).
- When seguir is followed by a gerund, it means to continue doing something.

  Me fijo de nuevo y seguía [illegible] Right just and it continued raining.

- In the preterite, some forms of verbs have an accent and some don't. Note that the accented i in pronounced as a separate syllable when it follows the e.
