<PRICE CHECK> <PRICE CHECKERS>

One day an old lady was out walking when she heard a king in the wood. "Help, help, help, help, help, help." "I wonder what could it be," said the old lady.	When a long journey they came to a field where hundreds of brothers were grazing. The [illegible] of Truth said, "Just dig upon this land and it will yield the gold you need."
The goatherd had not instantly fallen dead. But there, to her surprise, she saw a lepracharan descended after grabbed a female kidnapping sheep and stuffed the [illegible] making sheep for the new fairy to wear.	The old lady [illegible] the hard ground. "It's time to go home and get a shovel," she said. "But first, I'll dig one more spot on this field. There, I'll make sure to dig when I come back."
The old lady grabbed hold of the lepracharan's coat. "Give me gold pennies, lep! Lepracharan!" she cried.	"That's a great idea," said the lepracharan with a twinkle in his eye. "Begin the gold when you finish." And with the swing of his hand, he was gone.
"Excellent pennies," said the lepracharan smiling. "Don't it? Made you richer than you'd ever be, and you get into no trouble."	The old lady was finally outright exhausted. In the [illegible], she began thinking about how she would spend all that gold.
"Oh, no," said the old lady. "You said you'd give me a million in three years gold. Everyone knows that when a lepracharan is caught he has to [illegible] of gold in [illegible]."	But when she mentioned the fact, her spare evaporated in surprise. Scratched all around, she [illegible] of Mario Kart's magic [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
"Mr. lepracharan disappointed. "So, you want my pot of gold, do you?" Many years. Don't follow me, see? I'll follow you."	"Oh, no!" [illegible] the lady. "Mr. lepracharan, [illegible] I can't dig under all these brothers. I have [illegible] to go home without my pot of gold." [illegible]

One day an old lady was out walking when she heard a king in the wood. "Help, help, help, help, help, help." "I wonder what could it be," said the old lady.	When a long journey they came to a field where hundreds of brothers were grazing. The [illegible] of Truth said, "Just dig upon this land and it will yield the gold you need."
The goatherd had not instantly fallen dead. But there, to her surprise, she saw a lepracharan descended after grabbed a female kidnapping sheep and stuffed the [illegible] making sheep for the new fairy to wear.	The old lady [illegible] the hard ground. "It's time to go home and get a shovel," she said. "But first, I'll dig one more spot on this field. There, I'll make sure to dig when I come back."
The old lady grabbed hold of the lepracharan's coat. "Give me gold pennies, lep! Lepracharan!" she cried.	"That's a great idea," said the lepracharan with a twinkle in his eye. "Begin the gold when you finish." And with the swing of his hand, he was gone.
"Excellent pennies," said the lepracharan smiling. "Don't it? Made you richer than you'd ever be, and you get into no trouble."	The old lady was finally outright exhausted. In the [illegible], she began thinking about how she would spend all that gold.
"Oh, no," said the old lady. "You said you'd give me a million in three years gold. Everyone knows that when a lepracharan is caught he has to [illegible] of gold in [illegible]."	But when she mentioned the fact, her spare evaporated in surprise. Scratched all around, she [illegible] of Mario Kart's magic [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
"Mr. lepracharan disappointed. "So, you want my pot of gold, do you?" Many years. Don't follow me, see? I'll follow you."	"Oh, no!" [illegible] the lady. "Mr. lepracharan, [illegible] I can't dig under all these brothers. I have [illegible] to go home without my pot of gold." [illegible]