My worst holiday was last year at age 12 when camping with friends in the Blue Mountains.

We stayed at a campsite only Park was there and I have never been so full of me. We had to eat the last meal in the toilet due to the amount of food we had and all blood.

We were really excited at the camping because we're very hungry and immediately began preparing something to eat.

After finally it started to rain heavily. That's when we realized we had forgotten our tent. To make sure there to get back like had no problem from the rain because everyone else had a sheltered house or an umbrella. I called all night. The ground was very wet and we all slept outside in a possible of water. The next day some people lost the bus accidentally went up and we quickly walked back to our cars. I was very tired.

Since that trip I have always brought my rain coat.
