

More School?

By: Rachael Parlett

Can you believe it!? Our principal just informed us that we are going to start having school in July! Are you kidding me? September through June is PLENTY of school if you ask me. For example, us students work so hard for ten months that I don't think it is too much to ask to have two itty-bitsy months off. In fact, we work so hard that our brains just stop working after June. It would be nearly impossible to cram any more information into our minds!

Not only that, but teachers need a break, too. I mean, come on, these classrooms don't just run themselves, you know. Our teachers are here early and stay late just to make sure everything is ready for when us kids come every day. To be honest, I think that I'd be alright staying until July, but my poor teacher, I don't think she could handle it. It's only January and her hair is starting to stand out on its ends. Please, PLEASE reconsider, dear principal, making us stay until July. Don't forget, if the kids are out of school, we won't be in your office for being in trouble.

Oh, you're I've never seen there before, but I hope she's that hair. You should give yourself a break!
