

December 2012

Thank you so very much for remembering me around the holidays. Having you in class is a true joy, and gift enough for me each and every day that I come into work. I feel honored to have you as one of my students.

Being a teacher is such a gift in itself, as my students truly give me a greater purpose in life. The greatest gift any student could ever give a teacher, is to love to learn and to strive to achieve. That is, after all, my hopes for each and every one of my students.

Thank you for your gift, I am very grateful for your generosity and thought.

Fluoride,

Thank You
