

At the restaurant

-The restaurant has great food.
-Yes, it's great food.
-And the service is great.
-Yes, I love your service, please.
-Thank you, sir/ma'am.

-Could I have another glass, please?
-What would you like, please?
-Oh, yes, sir. One more, please.

-Water, please from the tap, please?

-Excuse me, please. Can you bring us the menu, please?
-Here you are.

-We'd like to order.
-Is that correct, sir?
-Oh, yes, please, please.
-And what would you like to order?
-A glass of water for me, please.

-What would you like to order?
-Oh, yes, please.

-The menu is excellent.
-Oh, yes, it's good.
-Oh, yes.

-Hello, sir. Long time since we have seen you here, please?
-Oh, I am very well, actually. In addition, yes?
-How are your wife and a pair of kids?
-All are good, thank you.
-How is everything going?

-Good morning, sir. How are you?
-Oh, I am very well.
-Oh, all right. What is it?
-A glass of water, please.

-How are you, sir?
-Really, sir?
-Oh, absolutely very, sir, please.

-Excuse me, please. This is the menu, please.

-Is everything all right, sir?
-Oh, all absolutely very, sir. There is another menu.

-Hello, sir. How are you, please?
-I'm very well, thank you.
-Oh, yes, please.
-Thank you.

-Yes, I'll have another glass.
-Thank you.

-Yes, sir. I'll bring it right away.

-Yes, sir, please, please.

-Yes, sir. What would you like to order, please?
-Two glasses of water. And a menu?
-And I'll have two more.
-I think I'll have a pair of legs.
-Thank you.

-Is everything all right, sir?

-What about you?
-Thank you.

-Hello, sir. How are you, please?
-Oh, yes, please.
-A pair of legs and a pair of legs, please.

-Hello, sir. How are you?
-Oh, I am very well.
-What is it, please?

-Oh, I'm not feeling too good.
-Oh, I'm not feeling too good.
-Oh, I'm not feeling too good.

-Oh, I'm not feeling too good. I'll get you the menu, please.

-Thank you, sir. How are you?