

PREFIX

Select from the list that follows, the word that best completes the numbered sentences.

circumference	monologue	synchronize	nonconformist	pronoun
contradict	illiteracy	introverted	symphony	disoriented
ultramodem	postpone	Hypodermic	illogical	intercollegiate abnormal	multitude	multimillionaire	preface	malfunction
submit	antifreeze	monosyllabic	hypersensitive	precursors
triplets	misjudge	predicts	bifocals	disregarded

1. After reading the _____, I knew what to expect in the novel.
2. There have been an _____ number of absences this month. This could be due to hotter than usual temperature.
3. The root dict means 'to speak' or 'to tell'. If u speak against a person, you _____ him or her.
4. When a person states what he or she believes will happen, he or he _____, or foretells the events.
5. If you fail to judge a person correctly, you _____ that person.
6. The proud father could hardly believe his ears when the nurse told him that his wife had just given birth to _____. Imagine his excitements at increasing hi family from two to five in a day!
7. Eyeglasses that have lenses ground with one part for close focus and one part for distance focus are called _____.
8. A person who will not conform to a particular action is called _____.
9. The student was asked to figure the distance around the Earth which is the _____ of the Earth.
10. A person who is _____ could not deal objectively with child abuse.
11. The needle used to inject medicine under the skin is a _____ needle.
12. Each winter motorists put _____ in their cars to protect against freezing.