

1) Read the title and identify the target audience.

2) In which case can parents with his children use the phone more?

3) What do you think the text is about?

Have you ever noticed your kids use the phone more?

Do not feel a little "ugh?" is that one concerning. "More? how the phone more? The called himself it." if that's your reaction then you are probably better than one. Well, because for some children things are very different.

In some ways of course. The great parental concern. It's not too early for some teenagers to discover "the words of their own", and simply forget how to communicate. It can happen in a hurry. One article they're happy and outward going. The next they're locked in solitary. Most proud in watching themselves 2 for the nearly 200 times.

That's no longer children, not adults, just teenagers. Their bodies are changing. Their feet make physical impulses when their young minds often find it difficult to cope with. It's hardly surprising that they should want to retreat into their own virtual world. It's not too late to change it around.

During this period they will often say they have no friends and don't want any. In fact, they are not desperate to join a group. "I'm too fat. I'm too skinny." "My hair is too greasy. My clothes aren't fashionable enough."

So the most important thing you can do is to get them talking. Often all it requires is a little encouragement, or commenting on the quality of a fashion tip of teenage magazine, encourage your children to get some friends right.

They may start with themselves 2 another twenty-five times. But at least there is a shared world shared a moment. You can then sit down to participate in sports or go to the cinema and participate together.

But remember, a fifteen-minute conversation with your children every day can help them become more open to your own world.

3) Answer the following questions with reference to the text.

- The writer thinks that some parents complain about their children's misuse of mobile but they are not aware of the fact that they are better than other parents. Can you explain or what way they are better?
- What advice would you give to help teenagers to cope themselves?
- What are the qualities suggested by the writer to solve the problem?

4) Writing

Write an article in a newspaper in which you disagree of the writer's opinion and mention the negative effects mobile phone has on teenagers.

4) Language study