

1) Read the title and identify the target audience.

2) In which case can parents with his children use the phone more?

3) What do you think the text is about?

Have you ever noticed your kids use the phone more?

Do not feel a little "ugh?" is that one annoying "Mom! how the phone does? I'm calling myself off" if that's your reaction then you are probably better than one. Well, because for some children phones are very different.

In some ways of course. The great parental concern is do the kids use the phone to connect with words of their own, and simply forget how to communicate. It can happen in a flash. One minute they're happy and outgoing going. The next minute locked in solitary. Mom would be watching television 2 for the nearby 300 line.

That's no longer children, get called, get the phone. Their bodies are changing. They feel more physical impulses when their young minds often find it difficult to cope with. It's hard watching the boy about what is normal age that can control and it's hard to watch to change in yourself.

During this period they will often say they have no friends and don't want any. In fact, they are not desperate to join a group. "I'm too fat. I'm too skinny." My hair is too green. My clothes aren't fashionable enough!

So the most important thing you can do is to get them talking. Often all it requires is a little encouragement, or commenting on the quality of a team full of teenagers maybe, encourage your children to get some friends right.

They may start with television 2 another twenty five lines. But at least there is a shared space where it afterwards. You can then sit down to participate in sports or go to the cinema and participate together.

But remember a fifteen-minute conversation with your children every day can help them become more open to other people's words.

3) Answer the following questions with reference to the text.

- The writer thinks that some parents complain about their children's misuse of mobile but they are not aware of the fact that they are better than other parents. Can you explain or what way they are better?
- What advice does the writer give to help teenagers to cope themselves?
- What are the qualities suggested by the writer to solve the problem?

4) Writing

Write an article in a newspaper in which you disagree of the writer's opinion and mention the negative effects mobile/telephone usage brings.
