

1) Read the title and identify the target audience.

2) In which case can parents with his children use the phone more?

3) What do you think the text is about?

Have you ever noticed your kids use the phone more?

Do not feel a little "ugh?" is that one annoying "Mom! how the phone does? I've called them all day" if that's your reaction then you are probably better than one. Well, because for some children phones are very different.

In some ways of course. The great parental stressor. It's not too easy for some teenagers to discuss "no words of their own", but simply forget how to communicate. It can happen in a flash. One minute they're happy and outward going. The next minute locked in solitary. Mom would be watching television 2 for the nearby 300 line.

That's no longer children, get called, get the phone. Their bodies are changing. They feel more physical impulses when their parents make them feel it difficult to cope with. It's hard watching the boy about what to expect and that can cause and it's hard for them to change or understand.

During this period they will often say they have no friends and don't want any. In fact, they are not desperate to join a group. "I'm too fat. I'm too skinny." "My hair is too green. My clothes aren't fashionable enough."

So the most important thing you can do is to get them talking. Often all it requires is a little encouragement, or responding in the spirit of a little bit of teenage mischief, encourage your children to get some friends right.

They may start with television 2 and the nearby 300 line. But that's not the only way to get them talking. You can also try to get them to participate in sports or go to the cinema and see movies together.

But remember, a 15-minute conversation with your children every day can help them become more open to your own words.

3) Answer the following questions with reference to the text.

- The writer thinks that some parents complain about their children's misuse of mobile but they are not aware of the fact that they are better than other parents. Can you explain or what way they are better?
- What advice does the writer give to help teenagers to cope themselves?
- What are the qualities suggested by the writer to solve the problem?

3) Writing

Write an article in a newspaper in which you disagree with the writer's opinion and mention the negative effects mobile phones have on teenagers.

4) Language study