The lion and the mouse

A very long time ago, a big lion was asleep under a tree. A little mouse walked on the lion's foot. He woke the lion up.

The Big Lion was very angry. He opened his mouth and made a very loud noise.

He put his big foot on the mouse and wanted to eat him.

"Please forgive me, King," cried the little mouse.

"Please let me go. I will never forget you...

One day I will help you."

The lion thought that was very funny. How could a little mouse help the King of the Jungle?

He thought it was so funny that he let the mouse go.

A few weeks later, the little mouse heard the lion making loud noises.

He went to see what the trouble was and he found the lion in a net.

The lion could not get out of the net.

"Now it's my turn to help you, King," said the little mouse.

"Thank you," said the lion. "But how can a little mouse like you help a big lion like me?"
