

EXAMPLE: Prepared Responses to Moral Stimulus

Students are assigned to prepare responses to the stimulus, reflecting and illustrating their moral reasoning. Students are then assigned to read and discuss their responses and to give feedback to their partners.

1. Write a response to the moral stimulus and submit your response.
2. Respond to your partner's response, giving constructive feedback.

Students are lining up for the survey and feedback on their responses to the stimulus.

Class Questions

1. How does the stimulus illustrate the moral reasoning and reasoning? How do you feel about the stimulus? How do you feel about the stimulus?
2. How do you feel about the stimulus? How do you feel about the stimulus?
3. How do you feel about the stimulus? How do you feel about the stimulus?
4. How do you feel about the stimulus? How do you feel about the stimulus?