

Falling, Falling

Some trees rest all winter without eating. Then in the summer, they grow leaves to make food. When fall comes, they shed those leaves.

