

Checklist For Better Sleep

Good sleep is influenced by many factors. Record how many of these things you have done in the last week, and consider making changes to your routine.

Things that are known to make sleep worse

- Napping during the day
- Watching television in bed
- Using a device with a bright screen late in the evening before bedtime (e.g., smartphone, a laptop)
- Consuming drinks containing caffeine (tea, coffee, cola, energy drinks, hot chocolate)
 - How many cups today?
 - If bedtime is 10:00pm, was your last caffeinated drink 6pm or earlier?
- Drinking alcohol (alcohol typically leads to interrupted sleep)
- Eating a heavy meal less than 3 hours before bedtime
- Staying in bed/leaving if you can't fall asleep (it's better to get up and do something relaxing, then try again later)

Things that are known to improve sleep

- Regular exercise
 - How many times a week? (it is recommended to do at least 3 or 30 minutes per week)
 - If exercise is the day after the bed, not too close to the end of the bedtime routine
- Setting aside some necessary tasks each day to write down any to-do that are bothering or concerning you, then deciding to leave those concerns behind until tomorrow (make sure to do this at least one hour before bedtime)
- Relaxation exercises (e.g., relaxed breathing exercises, progressive muscle relaxation)
- Having a relaxing bedtime routine (e.g., taking a bath or a shower, reading a comforting book)
- Getting the conditions for sleep
 - Make sure the bedroom is completely dark (blackout curtains are cheap and effective)
 - Make sure the mattress and pillows are comfortable (make beds as attractive places as you can)
 - Make sure the bedroom is the right temperature (think like Goldilocks, not too hot, not too cold)
