

Cornell Notes: Early Natural Selection

Variation: differences among members of a species in physical and biological characteristics.

Mutations: result in physical and biological changes amongst members of a species.

Adaptation: a physical characteristics that is inherited that allows an organism to better survive in a changing environment.

Evolution through natural selection:

Once there are differences amongst individuals, nature will begin to select or favor the survival of some individuals.