Reading A to Z D'Nealian Worksheets

General Course Description: D'Nealian handwriting is designed to lead the student into cursive writing with virtually no trouble due to its unique, easy to write lower case manuscript. It focuses on legibility and has a strong reading/language arts correlation, which enhances language development. D'Nealian writing assists students with visual distress by allowing a flowing style without an abundance of pencil lifts. Other students profit with a head start on the slanting process in preparation of cursive.

Biblical Principles:

God expects us to know how to write and keep a record of His spoken word. (Jeremiah 30:2, Exodus 17:14)

Revelation is to be written and shared with mankind. (Revelation 1:19)

Writing is a means to communicate one's thoughts with others. (Luke 1:63, Romans 15:15)

General Course Content:

1st Quarter: Handwriting is approached not as an isolated lesson focusing on the formation of one or two letters but students learn to focus on several letters which form words.
