

Outline format for an Argumentative Research Paper

Points to consider: Indents; topics, subtopics and details; You can't have a "I" without a "II" nor an "A" without a "B", nor a "1" without a "2" , nor an "a" without a "b" (Two items are the minimum, most of these sub letters there should be more than 2). The more subletters you have, the easier it will be to do your paper.

Have a heading Name, Course & Teacher and Date

YOU CAN USE THIS FORM AS A TEMPLATE IF YOU SAVE IT Change any wording except the indents for each section; alternate numbers and letters in the format**

Title (this can change for the final paper)

I. Introductory Paragraph

A. Background

B. Thesis Statement (the although and nevertheless statement "although" should be removed, "nevertheless"; "however"; "even so" or similar synonyms can be used; (the 3 or more examples go below)

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

C. Forecast statement

II. Example #1

A. example + explanation of how it supports topic sentence

1.
 - a.
 - b.

2. etc.

B. Concluding thoughts on how (all) the example(s) support thesis