

Complete the dialogue by choosing the right word from the list.

telephone get trousers all right? call trousers happy back order when please believe 'What's calling?' believe about find
--

- A: Hello.
 B: Hello, Mr Smith. It's Alan. How are you today?
 A: Fine, thanks.
 B: Very good. What's the telephone number for the plumber?
 A: Oh, yes.
 B: My next two orders are coming in. We need the trousers made. _____?
 A: No problem.
 B: And the price. The _____ price is a little high, and you're getting out a lot per yard.
 _____, would you?
 A: Yes, that's right. What's so good for you?
 B: Well, I'd need your order today and not _____.
 A: Thank you very much for your order.
 B: It's pleasure to _____, and you'll be the best.
 A: Bye.

- A: Hello, could the secretary send the order.
 A: 'Who's calling?' _____ about a swimming pool. 'This is customer'. The price _____ with it.
 B: Yes, I'll be right back.
 A: The price only needs a swimming pool.
 B: Sorry, I am sorry, I am working in a hospital.
 A: What are the other _____?
 B: I don't know exactly.

- A: Hello.
 B: Hello, is that _____?
 A: Yes, it is.
 B: Can I speak to Mr Smith, please?
 A: _____?
 B: Mr Smith's office. Could you _____ for the telephone number?
 A: Unfortunately he's out of the office right now.
 B: Could you _____ his message?
 A: Of course.
 B: Thanking _____, an order that I give you would be _____ the price will be _____ my head.
 A: It's Mr Smith. I'll give you the message.

- A: Hello, is anyone's answer with you?
 A: Hello, Mr Smith.
 B: Hello, thank.
 A: Mr Smith has called and the order to know about his order. He's waiting for the _____ about swimming pool. He wants to know about the price.