

DESIGNING A ONE POINT PERSPECTIVE ROOM
ADDING PEOPLE TO YOUR ONE POINT PERSPECTIVE ROOM

The Vanishing point and horizon are at the eye level of the viewer. The horizon line is sometimes called the 'camera line' because it lines up with where the camera would be if you raised it to your eyes to photograph the scene. Notice in the last picture that, near or far, the characters' eyes are all at the same height as the vanishing point.