

Social Reconstruction

- Some Northern banks and businessmen began investing in the South.
- With money came carpetbaggers – Northerners who came South to take advantage of the problems in the South.
- Worse than them were the scalawags – Southerners who worked with the carpetbaggers. They were considered traitors.