

Title: The Autobiography of a Cheetah

Aim: To practice appealing to the reader's senses in descriptive writing

Task one:

Look at the event in front of you, write one sentence describing what your event looks like in as much detail as possible.

Task two:

Write a sentence about the way your event might have been feeling before it gets over.

This is called personification. It is when you give human qualities to concrete (tangible) objects in your writing.

Task three:

Open the wrapper of your event and describe the sound that it makes.

Task four:

Lift up your event, smell it, and describe how it smells.

Task five:

Feel the texture of the event and describe how it feels when you touch it.

Task six:

Put the event in your mouth and describe how it tastes.

Write a paragraph that appeals to all five of the reader's senses. Your paragraph should describe the experience that the event gives through when it is eaten.
