

Put the words in the right form or form and complete with the right preposition.

In the table, every table is proper or is judged than table is given, especially when eating-out formal occasions. That's why, the table has to be table manners.

- If you're a table, you should not be (eat)
- Don't bring to the table.
- I have all the food to your (take)
- You may not or your fingers if you are at a
Dinner, always use a knife and fork.
- Never your mouth open.
- Don't with food.
- Don't your food.
- Remember your napkin at all times.
- Don't your mouth at the table.
- Eat only food at dinner.
- Never (eat) salt or pepper, ask someone to give it you.
- Don't talk your mouth full.
- Say "Excuse me" before the table.
- Use a knife and fork your meat.
- Don't put your arms or elbows the table.
- Sit up
Don't your table when you are eating.
- Don't food or plates.
- Don't the table.
- Take all your
When you have finished, place your knife and fork together your plate.

Write 'C' or 'D'. Circle the correct option.

 bring - bring (C) get - get (C) eat - eat (C) right - right (C) knife - knife (C) 	 manners - important - traditional impressive - boring - comfortable
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------