Dear Pig One, Pig Two, and Pig Three,

I have received the most surprising letter. I'll bet that you could never in a million years guess who it's from. So I'll just have to tell you: It's from a human being!

You know that my mother has forbidden us to go to the McGregors' garden. It's a dangerous place.

But the carrots and cabbages are very hard to resist, and yesterday I didn't even have to go inside the garden. I found my jacket and shoes outside the gate, along with a note and two juicy carrots. The note turned out to be an invitation to Goldilocks McGregor's birthday party! Do you think her father knows about this?

Well, I sure would love to see what a human party is like. And the invitation says to bring as many friends as I want. Would the three of you like to come with me this Sunday at 2:00 P.M.?

Your friend,

Peter Rabbit

P.S. The wolf's tail soup you served at the housewarming party was delicious! I was very happy to make it to your party at last.
