

Paragraphs and punctuation

Rewrite the following passage in paragraphs, punctuating it, and changing small letters into capital letters where necessary.

Remember: Paragraphs separate ideas, themes, or instructions. Without paragraphs, writing can be difficult to understand.

rainbows

my heart leaps up when i behold a rainbow in the sky some willows wither, some the sallows fall and most of us show his feelings when we are lucky enough to see a rainbow there is an old saying that a pot of gold is buried at the end of the rainbow but have you ever tried to reach a rainbow's end of course its impossible because a rainbow is really just the result of the sunbeams reflecting and reflecting light from our eyes there are seven colors in the rainbow red orange yellow green blue indigo and violet

Rewrite this section of a play script as a story. Use paragraphs and quotation marks. Write on a separate sheet of paper, and continue the story, if you wish.

Remember: When writing direct speech dialogue, start a new paragraph each time the speaker changes.

"It's raining again, but the sun is shining so well!" said Nick.
"I think we should go swimming instead!" said Sophie.
"We might get wet ... let's wait a bit longer," suggested Nick.
"We can't swim without getting wet, Nick. What difference does it make?" Sophie asked.
"None!" exclaimed Nick.
"What is it?" asked Sophie.
"Look - a rainbow over the beach!" cried Nick.
"Quick, get your spade - we'll be rich!" exclaimed Sophie.
