Comprehension

Once there was a poor old woman. She lived with her two little daughters in a hut near a forest. Since her husband's death, she had lived in a very simple way. The hut was small and the food was simple. But she and her daughters were always happy. They were never ill. People got sick when they ate too much and worked too little. But they had never eaten too much and they always worked very hard. There was a piece of land in front of the hut. They kept a few cows and some hens there. They got milk from the cows and eggs from the hens.
