

Review for Midterm Quiz Week 6

- I. Introduction to “The Five-Paragraph Essay” (see pp. 2-3)
 - A. Hook: writing college papers doesn’t have to be overwhelming.
 - B. Background: An essay is
 1. Introduction
 - 2.
 - 3.
 - C. Thesis with preview of three key points: The model essay has five paragraphs because of its format:
 1. Introduction
 - 2.
 - 3.
- II. Introduction Paragraph
 - A. This paragraph creates a first impression.
 - B. It has three functions:
 - 1.
 - 2.
 - 3.
- III. Body Paragraphs
 - A. (relationship to the thesis)
 - B. Each body paragraph usually has three parts:
 - 1.
 - 2.
 - 3.
- IV. Conclusion Paragraph
 - A. The conclusion has three functions:
 - 1.
 - 2.
 - 3.
 - B. One technique for writing a conclusion is to
 1. first
 2. then
 - C. (explain how the conclusion relates to the introduction)

If you know the parts of an essay, the definitions of paraphrasing and plagiarism, and the two places you must cite a source in APA style, you will be well-prepared for the quiz.

HINT: Many teachers consider any True-False question with an absolute (a word like always or never) to be false.