

After playing in the snow all day, John's skin was as cold as ice.	The room is a dark cave.	Tiffany's eyes are as blue as the ocean.
The table sighed under the weight of Jayden's books.	Kevin snores as loud as a lion's roar.	Ryan jumps like a kangaroo.
Teresa is so hungry she could eat one hundred pizzas!	Matthew is as hungry as a bear after hibernation.	Annie's eyes were two diamonds sparkling in the sunshine.
Books are airplanes ready to take the passengers to any destination.	It's hot enough outside to boil water.	It will take a million years to finish this assignment.
The phone yelled at Carmen to answer it.	The stack of books is bigger than my house.	The tree nodded to John as he walked by.
The chocolate cake begged to be eaten.	The tree is a soldier guarding the entrance.	The sun grinned at Jane as she walked to school.
Simile	Metaphor	Personification
Hyperbole	My dog is as smelly as dirty socks.	My teacher is as mad as a hornet because our class would not work.
