

GOING TO vs. WILL

I	+ form	+ going to	+ intention of the speaker
I	am	am	am
You	are	are	are
He	is	is	is
She	is	is	is
It	is	is	is
We	are	are	are
You	are	are	are
He	is	is	is
She	is	is	is
It	is	is	is
We	are	are	are
You	are	are	are
He	is	is	is
She	is	is	is
It	is	is	is
We	are	are	are

Use the verb to:

- intention: I will go to the gym tomorrow.
- prediction: It will rain tomorrow.
- promise: I will call you later.
- offer: I will help you with your homework.

Choose the correct answer.

- I have already seen it. I think I'll / am going to go to bed.
- Where are you going?
- By what time are you going to start your lesson?
- Do you want to go to the park?
- Are there any more / will / are going to help me?
- What time will you arrive?
- I'll / am going to arrive tomorrow night.
- What time will you come to my house for dinner and talk about that?
- What time will / am going to be in class tomorrow?
- She has already decided. I'll / am going to buy a new car.
- The train will / will I see going to visit the president?
- Look at the clouds. It will / is going to rain soon.
- He will / is going to go to school tomorrow.
- Tomorrow I will / be going to see my friend.
- It's the wrong time. I'll / am going to see you later.
- The will / be going to see you later tonight. But I don't think it will / is going to see you.