

The first root (called
the radicle) pokes
through the seed coat
and grows downward.

A root grows first.
