

Dear Family,

While you are doing your holiday shopping, I would like to suggest that you consider some educational gifts that should help your child do well in school!

One resource that we have been using in our classroom this year is from the educational website, www.HeidiSongs.com! This website has some excellent materials for both reading and math that will compliment and support what we are doing in class.

My top recommendations are:

Thank you for supporting your child's education this holiday season!
