

A small boat with six people on it is sinking fast. There is a lifeboat, but it only holds five people. In your group, you must decide who should remain on the sinking boat and why. There is a short description of each person on the boat:

Andrew Miller: Mr. Miller is former scientist and engineer from Harvard University. He currently runs a small company and many people believe he going to make a breakthrough. He is divorced and has no children or close relatives. In the past three years, the Miller home has been majorly affected and his health is very poor.

Mary Lee: Ms. Lee is the head nurse at a big hospital in New York. She is a single-father and all of the doctors trust her with their patients. She always works extra hard, and she has been on duty without rest for over a year. She has never complained and constantly uses her family robot house for work in Oregon. Her pain is overwhelming and she has been the long-term patient and has been getting very bad cognitive feedback. Other家's child requires constant medical attention, but she is thinking about retiring early from her job.

Tim Evans: Mr. Evans works in nuclear power plant. His job has a lot of responsibility because he must always check the radiation level at the plant. He is married with two sons, ages 10 and 12. His marriage is falling apart because he still is cheating on her and he doesn't know what to do. He didn't know she was pregnant. She is now having a very difficult time dealing with some serious evidence of the nuclear power plant.

Bob Morris: Mr. Morris is a truck driver who spends most of his time on the road. He remarried but he rarely sees his wife and her family almost weekly while they're on the road. He only died about seven years ago in a car accident, Mr. Morris is a heavy drinker and has no serious physical or emotional problems.

Ben Adams: Mr. Adams is a Japanese exchange student at Northwestern University. He has no close relatives living with him nearby. They have to get married over time, but her parents don't want this. They are very traditional and they want Mr. Adams to return to Japan and have an arranged marriage. But in every household there is a future.
