

Igneous Rock

- Rock formed when magma cools and hardens via volcanism
- Two types – intrusive igneous and extrusive
- Intrusive – when magma doesn't quite make it to the surface, but crystallizes and cools below the surface
- Extrusive- magma that makes it to the surface, now lava, that crystallizes and cools above the surface