

Call my bluff (for 2 players)

1. First two cards are cut out the deck. Each player starts off with ten private cards, a "dealer" (Player 1) and a "winner" (Player 2). The cards to be a "dealer" or a "winner".
2. The dealer holds a private card so that the "winner" can't see the words and says, in Spanish, what is on the card. The other can say the true answer (understand) or bluff by saying one of the other two answers on the card.

4. The "winner" declares the answer to be true or false by placing the "Verdad" or "Mentira" card on the table.
5. The other then shows the private card. If the "winner" guessed right they keep the private card, if not the other keeps it.
6. The winner is the person to get all the cards, or the most cards after a set number of turns.
