

The Great Seal Controversy

The Great Seal Controversy was a constitutional crisis that, although it never led to a civil war, almost did. It was a result of the fact that the Great Seal was used by the British government in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution. The British government had used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution. The British government had also used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution.

The controversy over the Great Seal of the United States was a result of the fact that the British government had used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution. The British government had also used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution.

The controversy over the Great Seal of the United States was a result of the fact that the British government had used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution. The British government had also used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution.

The controversy over the Great Seal of the United States was a result of the fact that the British government had used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution. The British government had also used the Great Seal to issue orders and to appoint judges in the United States, which was a violation of the Constitution.

Part 2: The Great Seal Controversy

Primary Author: James Madison (drafted the original plan)

Origin: Proposed by Madison at the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia in the summer of 1787. The original draft of the Constitution was passed by the delegates in 1787.

Dating: June 17, 1787 (the original draft was the first draft in 1787, and the original draft was the first draft in 1787).