

_____ Jin, the stepmother, caught and cooked the fish for dinner. Yeh-Shen cried.

_____ Yeh-Shen got caught trying to get her slipper back.

_____ Yeh-Shen made three wishes - for beautiful clothes, to go to the festival, and to be like the other girls.

_____ Jin and Jun-ii were told never to come to the king's castle. They stayed in their cave for the rest of their lives.

_____ Yeh-Shen was too busy working to make Mandas, but she was able to have a special Mand - a beautiful fish.

_____ The festival arrived. Jin ordered Yeh-Shen to stay home and clean.

_____ Yeh-Shen lived with her stepmother, Jin, and stepfather, Jun-ii, in China.

_____ Yeh-Shen had a wonderful time at the festival, but when she hurried home, she lost a silk slipper.

_____ The king fell in love with Yeh-Shen when he saw her dressed in fine clothes and silk slippers.

_____ An old man told Yeh-Shen that the fish had special powers. He told to bury the fish bones and to tell the bones what she needed.

_____ A traveler found the lost slipper and gave it to the king. The king built a hut for people to come and try on the slipper.
