

In 1776, John Hancock signed the Declaration of Independence very large so that King George III of England would notice his signature. His signature became famous. Every signer used his personal style. The Declaration of Independence declared freedom. You have the freedom to choose your own personal handwriting style.

Your parents and grandparents probably learned a style like this with extended beginning and ending strokes. It slants and has very fancy capitals. K H R Y W