

3. Objectives met Review objectives you have met during the last 12 months.

Comments My objective of having my monitor positioned where nobody else in the office could see it was met by rotating my desk two inches per day over a three month period so that nobody would notice. I also placed a plant on my desk to point at in case anyone asked, "is something different in here?"

4. Future objectives Review future goals and objectives and your ability to execute these objectives.

Comments If you were to travel back in time to 1012 and show a 2012 John Deere combine harvester to a peasant working the King's land, he would think it was magic. It is therefore difficult to predict what the future will bring. Probably something to do with hover-belts or chickens that cook themselves when you press a button on their head.

5. Time management Review your ability/strengths to meet project timelines over the last 12 months.

Comments My ability to construct viable excuses as to why client's projects have not been completed on time is one of my strengths. Usually, I am able to convince the client that it is their fault. If not, I tell them Simon is the one working on their project and we don't like to rush him or he slaps his head and screams.

6. Special skills/abilities Review any special skills and/or abilities you may have and how they are utilized.

Comments Telekinesis. The largest object I have been able to move by staring at and concentrating is a Bic pen but I practice at my desk for at least four hours per day on other objects. This would be useful if someone asked to borrow a pen and I was completely paralysed from a trampoline accident or spider bite.
