

1. What is the Marquess of Queensberry? a. Victim b. Criminal c. Accused d. Defendant	2. Why does "The Marquess of Queensberry" matter? a. Victim b. Criminal c. Accused d. Defendant
3. The name of the play is described as a. the conflict between father and daughter b. the conflict between husband and wife c. the conflict between love and hate d. the conflict between democracy and monarchy	4. The play is written in verse because it a. adds beauty to most of the dialogue b. makes the words look good when read c. would be more enjoyable if recited by professional children d. is more appropriate for children
5. Which of the words of "The Marquess of Queensberry" is an example of a. direct characterization b. foreshadowing c. irony d. alliteration	6. Which words does the author provide being used in the opening line of the play? a. The Marquess of Queensberry b. The name of the father's name of coming to the play c. The name of the play d. The name of the father's name of coming to the play
7. The narrator that it also creates mood and sets the atmosphere of what is to come? a. Direct characterization b. Foreshadowing c. Irony d. Alliteration, irony, foreshadowing	8. The relationship between the father and daughter is shown through a. foreshadowing b. irony c. foreshadowing d. irony
9. The main theme of the play is a. that the father's name is important in the development of the play b. that the father's name is important in the development of the play c. that the father's name is important in the development of the play d. that the father's name is important in the development of the play	10. Which of the words of "The Marquess of Queensberry" is an example of a. direct characterization b. foreshadowing c. irony d. alliteration