

Language

- The simple language and use of first person pronouns are indicative of the autobiographical context of the poem. The poet is describing the memory in the simple language of her five-year-old self.
- The use of comparatives convey the emotions of the people towards their homeland. Comparatives in themselves suggest difference and the families feel that they are going somewhere that is better because it is their home.