

This compound sentence features two gerund phrases: one used as a direct object, the other as the object of a preposition. Each gerund has a direct object. Both main clauses lack expressed subjects; in each clause, the subject you is unexpressed.