

My Expected and Unexpected Behaviors

An expected behavior I usually have is:

I play with my frick

A stick figure stands on the left, holding a rectangular sign on a tall pole. The sign has the word "FRICK" written on it. Another stick figure stands on the right, looking towards the sign.

When I have this expected behavior, people might think:

I know this person is over

A large thought bubble with a tail pointing to the left. Inside the bubble, the text "I know this person is over" is written in a cursive-like font. There are three smaller circles leading to the main bubble.

An unexpected behavior I sometimes have is:

Fights about kick
ball

Two stick figures stand on the left and right. Each is holding a sign that says "KICK BALL". The signs are tilted upwards.

When I have this unexpected behavior, people might think:

this person
should know

A large thought bubble with a tail pointing to the left. Inside the bubble, the text "this person should know" is written in a cursive-like font. There are three smaller circles leading to the main bubble.
