Middle School Lesson Plan: Social Studies The Great Way of Taoism

Vocabulary List

General	Term
---------	------

A relative who lived in the past; a person from whom one is ancestor descended, usually more distant than a grandparent.

auspicious Lucky; a favorable sign or symbol which invites good fortune.

Relating to the universe in contrast to the earth; often characterized cosmic by vast expanses of space or time.

culture

The total transmissible result of living together that consists of knowledge, belief preferences, and behavior, which is transmitted to succeeding generations.

immortal A person who is exempt from death and will live forever; unending existence.

longevity Property of being long-lived.

nobility A class of people having high birth, rank, or social position.

A condition of prospering; having good fortune. prosperity

An item or object that is highly valued and important, entitling it to much reverence and respect (such as the fungus of immortality, which is a prized symbol of longevity). sacred symbols A visible sign, object, or something that stands for or suggests something else by reason of relationship; for example $ is a symbol for money.

Chinese Terms

A different spoken form of the same written language. In China dialect there are many different dialects and great differences exist among some dialects.

A sculpture composed of a pottery base and a bronze tree money tree depicting Taoist imagery. The tree branches are decorated with Chinese coin motifs and representations of the Taoist deity the Queen Mother of the West and other immortal and auspicious beings.