Cause and Effect Flowchart

The flowchart template consists of ten rows. Each row is a large horizontal rectangle divided into two equal halves by a vertical line. At the bottom center of each half, there is a small rectangular box. From the top corners of these boxes, lines extend upwards and outwards, meeting at a point in the center of the vertical line, forming a downward-pointing arrowhead. This structure is repeated for each of the ten rows, providing a space for students to write causes on the left and effects on the right.
