The text:

Andy and Kate are from Canada. They are pupils and they live in a small village in Toronto far away from their school. Every morning, they get up at half past seven, have their breakfast and catch the bus for school. The pupils meet for a short time in the court yard, then the lessons start at 9 o'clock. During the morning break, the pupils work together in groups to collect the garbage and keep their school clean.

In the morning, the pupils usually study maths, French, English, physics, history and geography. At one o'clock, they meet in the restaurant to have lunch. In the afternoon, they study music and drawing and they play sports. They also spend a long time in the library where they read books and do their homework.
