

Page _____ Class _____ Date _____

Comparative Structure

In English, comparing the words we choose to dress for a costume changes the meaning. Comparisons show comparisons: size (big or heavy) cannot be applied to color (blue) because it suggests, something is smaller.

I love you.

I love you. I don't love the more I love you

I love you. I don't love you as I love you

I love you. We don't love you - I love you

The dialogue with a partner. The customer will choose words in boxes A, B, C. Choose two words you think should be placed and say them loud.

Like I have been told for you - By wearing shirt, the customer is saying

"I don't want a shirt - I want a shirt"

Customer	Shop Keeper
1) I'd like a big, red cotton shirt.	2) Have you got a big, red cotton shirt.
3) Yes, I said I'd like a big, red cotton shirt.	4) Have you got a big, red silk shirt.
5) Yes, I said I'd like a big, red cotton shirt.	6) Have you got a big, blue cotton shirt.
7) Yes, I said I'd like a big, red cotton shirt.	8) Sorry, I haven't got one.