

Nervous System

Controls all the other organ systems in your body. It sends signals from your sense organs to your brain. The brain then sends messages that control your muscles and glands.

Urinary System

Removes waste products from your blood and keeps blood concentration steady.

Reproductive System

Produces cells that can join together to form new life.

