

11.1 Literature - advantages and disadvantages

I identified the advantages and disadvantages. Therefore I would like to have a closer look at the advantages and disadvantages.

The advantages of watching TV are: increasing vocabulary, more information and more fun.

However, there are some disadvantages when people watch TV for information and entertainment. I suppose that most people are more passively involved. But like all things there are also TV also has both advantages and disadvantages. Watching TV can be very useful. There are a lot of programs with high content of educational value. For example, with the help of TV, people can get specific information very fast. You can get information about everything, including the news. However, there are also disadvantages. First of all, TV is a cheap means of communication. More and more people are using it, especially children. This is one of the TV can be very easy to use instead of spending time with their family or friends. Furthermore, too many violent programs are broadcasted on television. Programs usually watch TV. Children are more likely to be influenced by all of these things. Children are really influenced and that there is no difference between TV content and what actually happened.

In conclusion, I think the overall influence of TV is not so simple as the question whether this influence is positive or negative.

- a) How often do you watch TV?
- b) What are the main reasons?
- c) Can you identify the main advantages and disadvantages of watching TV?
- d) Write a paragraph about what makes TV a popular medium.
